David Smith is a retired educator from Prince George's County Public Schools in Maryland although he is a native of Cumberland County. In 1996 he and his wife Ann restored the family homestead in Penn Township. He is the sixth-generation owner of the property. For eleven years he worked in the Hamilton Library, retiring in 2008. He has served as the editor of "Cumberland County History" for 11 years. He led the project to bring recognition to the Camp Michaux site in Cooke Township, a former POW Interrogation Camp during WWII. Part of that effort included having a state historical marker erected at the site. He was coauthor of "Penn Township, Cumberland County Pennsylvania 150 Years" in 2010. He was one of eight researcher/writers of "Water Powered Mills of Cumberland County" and author of "The Babes in the Woods Story" in 2015. He has served on the Board of Trustees of the Society since 2015.

Ginny Mowery's main interests over many years have been historic architecture and gardening. She and her husband started to restore a c. 1789 limestone house in Newville in 1971, and are still enjoying living (and working) there. Over the years Ginny has volunteered at CCHS as a docent and worked closely with Nancy Van Dolsen in her architectural survey of County properties. Ginny also enjoyed helping to plan, and served as docent on numerous holiday house tours and member holiday events. Ginny retired after 16 years as a Realtor and thoroughly enjoyed her real estate career. In 2007, Ginny became a Penn State Master Gardener and has maintained three acres at home along with volunteering at the Kings Gap garden as well as other garden-related events. She became a member of the CCHS Board in 2014 and was delighted to be asked to serve on various committees related to her passions, namely architecture and gardening. Ginny currently serves as chair of the Historic Property Committee.
